Notes

Unique 41-acre property located on the banks of the Hudson River. This 17th century Dutch stone colonial home is part of one of the great early estates of the Hudson Valley, with acres of pasture, forest, wetlands, gardens and Hudson River views.

The two barns lie just a short distance from the main house and were originally constructed in the early 1900's. The barns have undergone a thoughtful restoration retaining their original character while offering updated conveniences, including 220 electrical circuits, a kitchen and bath.

Areas of use must be determined in advance.
